ComSci Sponsors Two Leading Conferences on IT Financial Management

ComSci CEO to discuss how organizations can achieve greater IT Cost Transparency by "Operationalizing their IT Service Catalog"

Edison, NJ, February 3, 2009 – ComSci, LLC, a leading provider of Technology Financial Management solutions, will be sponsoring two key IT Financial Management conferences - the IQPC's IT Financial Management Week conference, to be held February 23 to 25, 2009 at International Plaza Resort and Spa in Orlando, Florida; and the IT Financial Management Association (ITFMA) Conference, "The World of IT Financial Management," to be held March 30 to April 3, 2009 at the Georgian Terrace Hotel in Atlanta. The conferences will focus on assisting IT CFOs and Controllers in reducing and managing costs, achieving transparency in IT expenditures, and aligning IT investment with the overall business strategy.

As a sponsor of both conferences, Michael Siniscalchi, ComSci's Vice President of Business Development will be illustrating ComSci's BillBrowser™ web-based reporting tool, which provides Business Managers with "One Bill" of all IT products and services and associated consumption metrics.

Robert Svec, President and CEO of ComSci, will be speaking at the ITFMA conference and will focus his discussions on how companies can transform their static IT Service Catalog into a monthly production and reporting process that will drive visibility, accountability, and transparency into technology consumption throughout the organization. The session will be attended by over 100 Technology CFOs and Financial Managers across 40+ enterprise firms.

"Creating an IT Service Catalog is not a goal in and of itself," commented Svec. "It is simply a means to a greater end – to establish true and repeatable IT cost transparency reporting and metrics throughout the organization. People at all levels of an organization should know what drives their expenses, why they are being charged the expenses, and how the expenses tie back to the business objectives. The whole idea is to translate 'Technology' into 'Business Language'."

"Providing business users with the details of their individual usage allows them better visibility into their consumption of IT services so they can control, manage and be accountable for their utilization of and demand for IT services," continued Svec.

ITFMA is the national leader in the education of IT financial management professionals and the only recognized provider of certification in the various financial disciplines of IT financial management. For more information or to register for the event, go to www.itfma.com.

IQPC provides business executives around the world with tailored conferences keeping them up-to-date with industry trends, technological developments and the regulatory landscape. For more information or to register for the event, go to www.itfmweek.com.
